

Index

- AAVE (African American Vernacular English): attitudes toward, 17, 49, 68–69; developing a knowledge base of, 167; discourse patterns in, 42, 44–48, 166–70; as distinct linguistic system, 31, 42, 99; oral influences in written text, 100; pedagogical applications, 36, 174, 193; rhetorical style, 145; sociolinguistics of, 35–37; teacher familiarity with, 48–49
- AAVE-speaking instructors, 64, 81, 82
- AAVE-speaking students: attitudes toward, 57; in community-based organizations, 112; influences on linguistic practices of, 42; self-perceptions of, 15, 27–28
- Abrahams, Roger, 152–53
- academic achievement: of African American students, 28, 190–91; barriers to, 16–17, 177–78
- academic American English, 68–69, 99
- academic standards, external, 184
- academic writing, 49
- achievement gaps, 28, 190–91
- Ackerman, Diane, 7
- affect: changes in, 102–3; creating space for, 150–53; and efficacy, 60, 65–66, 126–27, 136; meaning of, 151; in responses to student writing, 56
- affective dimension, 20
- African American discourse patterns in preaching tradition, 159–60
- African American oral and literary traditions, 26–27, 94, 149, 151–53. See also AAVE (African American Vernacular English)
- African American students, 28, 100, 143. See also AAVE-speaking students
- African American Vernacular English. See AAVE (African American Vernacular English)
- agency matrix, 110
- alternative literacies, 100
- analogy, use of, 81
- analysis and synthesis, in effecting change, 187–88
- Ann Arbor "Black English" case, 31, 146–47, 148, 195
- Appiah, Kwame Anthony, 23
- Ashton, Patricia T., 58, 178
- assessment, approaches to, 167, 170–73
- assignment goals, 171–72
- assimilationist teaching, 50
- attitudes: as barriers to academic achievement, 16–17, 19, 107; as barriers to teacher efficacy, 56–57, 174; as focus of Ann Arbor case, 146–47; readjustment of, 146–49; toward AAVE, 17, 49, 68–69, 98
- Ayana (Troop graduate), 61
- Bakhtin, M. N., 137–38
- Balester, Valerie M., 43
- Ball, Arnetha: church life of, 119–20; family of, 114–16; formal education of, 117–19; as parent, 127; as researcher, 138–39; as teacher, 128–29; as teacher educator, 130. See also personal narratives of Arnetha Ball
- Bandura, A., 59–61
- Baugh, John, 19
- Bishop, Wendy, 57–58
- Black English. See AAVE (African American Vernacular English); Ann Arbor "Black English" case
- Brooks, Gwendolyn, 133–34
- call and response, 96, 152–53
- Candice Council, 89
- categories of difference, as social constructs, 24

- CCCC. See Conference on College Composition and Communication (CCCC)
- change and changes: Arnetta's personal narrative on, 33–35; the dozens, 145–46; dynamics of, 57–58; process of, 103; teachers and, 191–94; Ted's personal narrative on, 35–37; transformative, from internalization to best practices, 102, 142, 186–88
- Children's Creative Workshop, 127–29
- choice, as focus of community-based organizations, 71–73, 95
- Choice is Mine, The* (Starr), 95
- Clark, Romy, 164
- classroom life, 18, 58
- classroom participation. See student roles and participation
- coaching, 64, 162
- code switching, 108–9, 169–70
- collaborations, and teacher efficacy, 173, 177–82, 180–81
- Collaborative Learning and Instruction Center (CLIC), 180–81
- collective efficacy, 179
- colloquial speech, use of, 168
- Commoner, Barry, 136
- community-based organizations: choice as focus of, 71–73, 95; collaborations with professionals in, 173; critical aspects of teaching and learning in, 96–97; exemplary teaching practices in, 76, 112, 195–96; interactive discourse, 75–76; and literacy-related learning, 29–30, 71–78; as model of vicarious experience, 101; racial solidarity in, 73, 77, 99–100; student roles in, 74, 96–97, 156, 162
- community-based resources: value of, 98
- community of learners, 173
- composition teachers. See teachers
- Conference on College Composition and Communication (CCCC), 147
- "Critical Language Awareness" approach, 164
- critical race theory (CRT), 20–22
- cultural beliefs: in ecology of teacher efficacy, 58
- cultural discontinuity, 178
- cultural influences as resources, 73, 149, 174
- curriculum: cultural influences as resources, 174; examination of race in, 150; external control over, 184; hidden, 24, 35
- daily lesson plan, 144
- Daniels, Harvey, 143–44
- Dannemiller, Kathleen, 148–49
- Delpit, Lisa, 54–55
- dialects, 30–31, 98–99
- dictionaries, 167
- discourse: interactive, 73–76, 161–62; patterns in AAVE, 42, 44–48, 166–70; patterns in African American preaching tradition, 159–60; strategies of Ms. Gabrielle, 86
- diversity: in literacies, 63
- doing your thing, 152–53
- double consciousness, 50
- double standards, 98–99
- dozens, the, 145–46
- Drach-Zahavy, Anat, 178–80
- Duffy, Gerald G., 163–64
- Earl, Mrs., 117–18
- Early English Composition Assessment Program, 180
- Ebonics. See AAVE (African American Vernacular English)
- ecology of teacher efficacy, 58–59
- Ede, Lisa, 131
- educational reform, teachers' role in, 191–94
- Edwards, Mrs., 117–18

- efficacy: Arnetha's personal narratives on, 104–5, 113–21, 127–30, 138–39; barriers to, 56–57, 174; collaborations and, 173, 177–82, 180–81; collective, 179; in community-based organizations, 76, 97–98, 195–96; of composition teachers, 77; defined, 17–18; ecology of, 58–59; essential elements in, 65–66, 126–27; extra-role behaviors and, 112, 126, 138, 178–79; feedback loops and, 60–61; improved, vs. exposure, 55–56; influences on, 177; personal narratives in journey toward, 103–4; professional socialization and, 56; and reflective optimism, 56–61; sense of, as critical aspect of teaching and learning, 96–97; sources of, 59–61, 102, 136–37; and success with AAVE-speaking students, 144–45; tactical, vs. morality, 111; Ted's personal narratives on, 105–12, 121–26, 130–36, 139–41; theory of, 16; turning points in journeys toward, 33–34; WPAS' role in fostering, 184–85
- Emerson Composition* (student), 158–59
- emotional expressiveness, 150–51
- empathy, skilled, 195
- empowerment, meaning of, 95
- enactive mastery experience, as source of self-efficacy, 59
- ENG 101, in university curriculum, 37–38
- English: academic American, 68–69, 99; mainstream American, 99; Standard, 70, 168. See also AAVE (African American Vernacular English)
- errors, surface-level, 171
- essentialism, 22
- ethnosensitivity, 167
- evaluation, approaches to, 167, 170–73
- expectations, teachers' of students, 63–65, 74, 153–55
- exposition with interpretive commentary, 46–51
- exposure vs. improved efficacy, 55
- externality, 136
- extracurriculum sites, 78–79
- extra-role behaviors of teachers, 112, 126, 138, 178–79
- family history assignment, 165–66
- feedback loops, 60–61
- first-year writing teachers, 144–45
- Fox, Thomas, 51
- Gabrielle, Ms., 82–86, 109
- grammar, 68–69, 82
- Harris, Joseph, 50
- Heath, Shirley Brice, 68
- Hillocks, George, 68, 103–4
- hooks, bell, 7–8, 12, 18, 66, 160–61
- Huck Finn, transformative change in, 135
- hybridity, 23–24
- identity negotiation and transformation, 19, 51–52, 57–58, 137–38, 140, 175. See also extra-role behaviors of teachers
- ideological becoming, 137–38
- influence and interaction spheres, 58–59
- informed interpreters, students as, 75–76, 92, 96, 162–64
- insecurities, confrontation of, 150
- instructional delivery, 80–81, 85, 96
- interactive discourse, 73–76, 161–62
- internalization to transformation, 102–3, 142, 186–88
- isolation, teacher, 177–78

- Ivanic, Roz, 164
- job satisfaction and extra-role behavior, 179
- Joiner, Charles, 148, 195
- journal writing, 90–91
- Kirabo* circle, 89
- knowledge base, 103–4, 167
- knowledge-sharing, in group meeting, 91–92
- Kochman, 150–52
- Kujichagulia*, principle of, 92–93
- Ladson-Billings, Gloria, 20, 21, 143
- language and languages:
  - culturally influenced patterns as resources, 73; defined, 30–31; diversity in, 31–32, 55; and linguistic tug-of-war, 99;
  - matrix, 108–9; in multicultural classrooms, 19; negative attitudes toward, 16–17, 69;
  - oral/written bond, 100, 166–67; secret, 33–34; "students' right to their own language" resolution, 189, 192–93;
  - varieties and registers, 81–83, 85–86, 170
- Lardner, Ted: education in African American vernacular culture, 124–25; family of, 123–24; initial encounters with AAVE, 132; as poet, 125–26; reversal of, 135; as student, 121–23; as teacher, 139–41; as writing instructor, 130–33. See also personal narratives of Ted Lardner
- learning: communities, 178; critical aspects of, 96–97; cultural differences as catalyst for, 22–23; literacy-related, 29–30, 71–78; materials for, 76; relationships, vibrant, 112, 181; service, 182; social context of, 103, 144; successful environments for, 100
- Lee, Amy, 183
- lesson plan, 144
- Lincoln's Road to the White House* (unknown), 83
- linguistic systems, evaluation of, 172
- Lisa (student), 38–41, 46–48, 154–55
- literacy and literacies: forms and uses, 62–63, 85, 92–93, 100; learning events, 96–97, 112; in multicultural classrooms, 19; participatory practices, 101; performance in activities, 75–76, 96; race in relation to, 8; teachers' dispositions toward, 31–32, 142
- literary practices, in Ujima activities, 93–94
- literature consulted, 18–26
- Lunsford, Andrea A., 131
- mainstream American English, 99
- Mama Olivia, 93–95
- Mama Sunika, 93
- Mary Ann (tutor/student), 51–56, 66–67
- material for learning, 76
- Meier, Terry, 26
- mentors, 90–93, 97
- metaphors, 8
- Mishler, Elliott, 137, 140
- mistakes of silence, 194–95
- morality vs. tactical efficacy, 111
- multiple literacies, 100
- narrative interspersions, 47
- narrative matrix, 109–10
- narratives, personal. See personal narratives
- National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE), 147
- NCTE. See National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE)
- negotiation, 23–24
- neighborhood history assignment, 164–65
- Nguzo Saba*, seven principles of, 88

- Nya Akoma* circle, 89
- Ochberg, Richard L., 109
- Ohio Board of Regents, 180, 181
- Olson, Gary, 23–24
- Operation "Together We Can Succeed," 29–30, 79–81
- oral and literary traditions of African Americans, 26–27, 94, 149, 151–53. See also AAVE (African American Vernacular English)
- oral language, as precursor to writing, 100, 166–67
- Pang, Valerie Ooka, 56
- participation patterns of students. See student roles and participation
- pedagogy: and AAVE, 36, 174, 193; culturally informed, 16–17; dynamics of change in, 57–58; external control of, 184; race-related differences in, 192; racism and, 56
- peer-to-peer interactions, 75
- performance, integration of, 157–61
- performative essays, 159–60
- personal narratives:
autobiographies and identity negotiation, 58; and concept of ideology, 108; inclusion of, 29; in journey toward efficacy, 103–4; of Mary Ann (tutor/student), 53–55
- personal narratives of Arnetha Ball: on continued efficacy development, 127–30; on early context for efficacy, 113–21; on journey toward efficacy, 104–5; on personal context for book, 10–15; on racialism in teaching, 26–28; self-analysis of journey toward efficacy, 138–39; on turning point in AAVE understanding, 33–34
- personal narratives of Ted Lardner: on context for continued efficacy development, 130–36; on early context for efficacy, 121–26; on journey toward efficacy, 105–12; on personal context for book, 4–10; self-analysis of journey toward efficacy, 139–41; on turning point in AAVE understanding, 35–37
- Philip (Troop instructor), 61, 63–65, 67, 108–9, 153–54
- physiological state, as efficacy source, 60
- playin' the dozens, 145–46
- poetry matrix, 106–7
- power relations, 23–24, 34–35, 195
- prejudices, confrontation of, 150
- Prendergast, Catherine, 50–51
- preservice teachers, attitudes of, 56–57
- productive revisions, facilitation of, 49
- professional development programs. See teacher development
- professional socialization, and teacher efficacy, 56
- race: as category of difference, 24–25, 106–7, 111, 195; examination of, in curriculum, 150; issues of, 13–14; and literacy, 8; public discourse about, 176; as social construct, 20
- race-neutral norms, 21–22
- race-related differences, as resource, 22–23, 192
- racial climate, 190–91
- racial prejudices, confrontation of, 149–50
- racial solidarity, in community-based organizations, 73, 77, 99–100
- racism: definitions of, 25–26; as system of advantage, 176; Patricia Williams on, 110

- reductionism, 22
- reflective optimism: in
  - community-based organizations, 76, 195–96; as critical aspect of teaching and learning, 97; defined, 17–18; meaning of, 65–66; and reflective practitioners, 144–45; teacher efficacy and, 56–61
- registers, language, shifts in, 49
- relationships, learning generated through, 181
- repetition, as patterning device, 47–48
- research and researchers: areas for future study, 189–94; and collaboration with writing professionals, 194; early work of, 188–89; scholarly context, 15–18
- Ritchie, Joy, 58, 107–8
- rites-of-passage, 88–89, 95
- ritual insults, 145–46
- Roehler, Laura R., 163–64
- Roithmeyer, Daria, 21–22
- role models, 97, 173
- Rose, Mike, 3–4
- Rosenwald, George C., 109
- Royster, Jacqueline Jones, 52

- Sablan, Velma, 56
- Sangoma* circle, 89
- scholarly context, 15–18
- schools, 4, 58
- Scott, Jerrie Cobb, 52–53
- secret languages, 33–34
- self-analysis: Arnetha's personal narrative of, 138–39; in service of classroom success, 144–45; storying in, 192; Ted's personal narrative of, 139–41; and transformation, 142
- self-efficacy. See efficacy
- self-reflection. See self-analysis
- service learning, 182
- seven principles of the Nguzo Saba, 88
- silence, mistakes of, 194–95
- skilled empathy, 195

- Sledd, James, 35–36
- Smitherman, Geneva, 35–36, 98, 147
- social context of learning, 103, 144
- socialization, professional, and teacher efficacy, 56
- social structures, in ecology of efficacy, 58
- sociolinguistics of AAVE, 35–37, 56
- sociological matrix, 107–8
- Somech, Anit, 178–80
- South Seattle Community College, 180–81
- spheres of influence and interaction, 58–59
- staff development, 182–85
- Standard English, 70, 168
- Starr, Alexander, 95
- Stenberg, Shari, 183
- storying and storytelling, 28–31, 192
- Student Achievement in Research and Scholarship (STARS), 181
- student roles and participation: in community-based organizations, 71–77, 74, 96–97; creating opportunities for, 155–57; as informed interpreters, 75–76, 92, 96, 162–64; in interactive discourse, 161–62; in Troop dance program, 65
- students, AAVE-speaking, 15, 27–28, 42
- students, African American, 28, 100, 143. See also AAVE-speaking students
- students, underachiever, 113–14
- "students' right to their own language" resolution, 189, 192–93
- student work: Emerson Composition, 158–59; Lisa's paper, 38–41; Mary Ann's letter, 51–56; poem, 81; What Happened Yesterday at Ujima (Wanika), 90–91

- study domains, linked, 15–16 surface-level errors, 171
- talk-aloud protocol, 160
 Tatum, Beverly, 25
 Taylor, Rebecca Greenberg, 52 teacher development: changes required in, 185–88; culturally informed pedagogy as focus of, 16–17; writing program administrators (WPAS) and, 182–85 teacher educators, 185–88 teacher efficacy. See efficacy teacher-learner community, 183 teacher narratives. See personal narratives teachers: authority of, 189–90; and change, 191–94; in community-based organizations, 96; education of, 186; first-year writing, 144–45; in group interactions, 74, 75; isolation of, 177–78; job satisfaction of, 179; preservice, attitudes of, 56–57 teaching, assimilationist, 50 teaching, critical aspects of, 96–97
 Teaching and Learning Academy (TLA), 183 teaching identities. See identity negotiation and transformation transformative change, 102–3, 142, 186–88 transition devices, 48
 Trepagnier, Barbara, 25–26
 Troop (dance program), 30, 61–66
- Ujima program: as community-based organization, 30; literary practices in activities, 93–94; mentors and leaders, 90–93; participants and activities, 86–90; as site of extracurriculum, 79 umbrella collision, 134, 136
 Umoja program, 88
 underachiever students, 113–14
- Upward Bound, 30, 79, 82–86
 verbal/social persuasion, as efficacy source, 60–61 verb forms, AAVE rendering of, 44 vernacular resources, students', 96 vibrant learning relationships, 112 vicarious experience, as efficacy source, 59–60 voice, shifts in, 49
 Vygotsky, L. S., 138
- Wanika's journal entry, 90–91
 Webb, Rodman B., 58, 178
 West, Thomas, 23–24
 Western Washington University Teaching and Learning Academy (TLA), 183
What Happened Yesterday at Ujima (Wanika), 90–91 whiteness, 21, 25, 37, 106–7, 111
 Williams, Mr., 71–73
 Williams, Patricia, 13, 110
 Wilson, David, 58, 107–8
 Woods, Sash, 181
 Worsham, Lynn, 24
 WPAS. See writing program administrators (WPAS)
 Wright, Mindy, 182
 Wright, Richard, 33–34
 writing: as activity, 69–70; affective responses to, 56; cultural experiences as resources in, 149; evaluation of, 167, 170–73; fluency in academic, 49; instruction in, 81–82; journal, 90–91; oral language as precursor to, 100, 166–67; as rapture, 7–8; significant tendencies in, 22–25; variations in patterns, 42–43 writing conferences, reconceptualization of, 161–62, 167, 170 writing program administrators

(WPAS): and staff development, 182–85; and support for collaboration, 177– 82 writing programs, assessment of,

190–91

Writing Workshop, Ohio State
University, 182

Zemelman, Steven, 143–44